Tropical North Queensland's favourite music festival, Savannah in the Round, has completed this year's line-up with the addition of Nashville-based artist, Tyler Hubbard.

He joins the already glowing line-up, with co-headliners like Kip Moore, The Living End, Hoodoo Gurus, Sheppard, Lee Kernaghan, The Wolfe Brothers, Troy Cassar-Daley, Max Jackson and so many more in playing at the Mareeba Rodeo Arena in the Cairns Hinterland from October 11 to 13.

Hubbard was first introduced to the world as half of country music duo Florida Georgia Line, where as a performer and songwriter, he sold millions of albums and has two Diamond certified songs with "Cruise" and "Meant To Be". As a solo artist, Hubbard has been recording under EMI Nashville, putting out his debut self-titled solo album in January 2023. The album has amassed more than 1 billion streams to date and features Hubbard's first two singles "5 Foot 9" and "Dancin' In The Country," which both reached no. 1 at Country Radio and have been certified 2x Platinum and Platinum, respectively. He released his sophomore album, Strong, on April 12th, which features his hit singles “Back Then Right Now” and “Wish You Would”.

He says of playing the festival later this year, "I couldn't be more excited to bring my show to Savannah in the Round this October, especially in the stunning setting of Tropical North Queensland. Australia's natural beauty never fails to inspire, and I'm ready to lose myself in the music amidst the wonders of Mareeba, where the spirit of country meets the magic of the outback."
